Survey No.: CH-473 (PACS B47) Construction Date: circa 1930

Name: Haneef Property

Location: 15055 Cedarbrook Place, Hughesville vicinity, Charles County

Private/Vacant/Unoccupied/Deteriorated/Restricted

Description: The Haneef Property contains a 1989 residence and a circa 1930 barn. The property is located on the southwest corner of Carrico Mill Road and Cedarbrook Place. The 2-story barn has a side-gable roof, with metal siding. It is of wood-frame construction with vertical wood siding, and is supported by concrete block piers. The entrances to the structure are located on the gable ends. The barn is no longer in use and is in poor condition. Sections of the metal roof are missing near the north and south ends. The perimeter of the barn is surrounded by vegetation.

Significance: The Haneef Property is a 2.63 hectare (6.5 acre) parcel located at the southwest corner of Carrico Mill Road and Cedarbrook Place. Muhammad and Aliya Haneef purchased the property from Bill and Jeanette Ferguson in 1988. The Charles County tax records list that the house was constructed in 1989, while according to Bill Ferguson, the barn was constructed circa 1930. The barn is no longer associated with its historic farmstead and, therefore does not represent a theme of agricultural production in Charles County. The barn, an example of common type found throughout the county and state, lacks architectural distinction and suffers from a loss of integrity. The structure is vacant and in poor condition. The roof is missing in several locations and vegetation has surrounded the barn.

Prepare both a summary paragraph of significance and a general statement of history and support.

The Haneef Property is a 2.63 hectare (6.5 acre) parcel located at the southwest corner of Carrico Mill Road and Cedarbrook Place. Muhammad and Aliya Haneef purchased the property from Bill and Jeanette Ferguson in 1988. The Charles County tax records list that the house was constructed in 1989, while according to Bill Ferguson, the barn was constructed circa 1930. There are no detailed, published historic maps of Charles County, Maryland that locate and indicate ownership of structures.

The Maryland Colony was granted by King Charles I to Lord Baltimore in 1632. Two years later, the first European community was established at St. Mary's City. Subsequent colonization moved north, along the Potomac and Patuxent Rivers. As settlers migrated away from St. Mary's City, the formation of a new county became necessary. In 1658 Charles County was founded in an area originally inhabited by Algonquins of the Powhatan Confederacy. Road clearing began in the mid-eighteenth century as a result of the establishment of port towns and Maryland's rising population. Tobacco cultivation dominated the economic and social life of Charles County until the mid-nineteenth century when soil exhaustion required agricultural diversification. The introduction of rail lines in the late nineteenth century linked Charles County with the north and south, encouraging trade. While the suburbanization of Charles County was ensured by the widespread availability of the automobile in the mid-twentieth century, the County has retained its rural and agricultural character.

The area that became Hughesville was located in Lord Baltimore's grant of 6,879.9 hectares (17,000 acres) of Newport Hundred to Major William Boarman during 1650-1699. This land included the region "east of Zachiah Swamp" and became known as Boarman's Manor. Hughesville does not appear on an 1840 Map of a Part of Maryland, and Fisher's 1852 Gazetteer of the State of Maryland did not list the community. Hughesville was located at the crossroads of two of the main routes through Charles County: Burnt Store to Patuxent City and on to Annapolis, (Burnt Store Road and Prince Frederick Road/Route 231) and Bryantown to Charlotte Hall and on to St. Mary's City (Leonardtwn Road/Route 5). Accordingly, Hughesville is shown on Martenet's 1866 Map of Maryland, Atlas Edition. The 1871 State Gazette and Merchants and Farmers Directory for Maryland and the District of Columbia called Hughesville a "post town." Bland's 1887 Maryland Directory and State Gazetteer listed both Episcopal and Roman Catholic churches in Hughesville as well as a Friends' school, four (4) general merchandise stores, two (2) saloons, two (2) undertakers, a wheelwright, a blacksmith, a tobacco buyer, and a population of fifty (50). Gannett's 1904 Gazetteer of Maryland defined Hughesville as a "post village...on the Washington, Potomac and Chesapeake Railroad" (Gannett 1904: 43). By 1906 the community was known as "a station of the Southern Maryland Railroad...and a banking town" with two (2) physicians, two (2) general stores, two (2) blacksmiths, a grist and saw mill, a flour mill, an undertaker and livery, a hotel, a hotel and saloon, a grocer and saloon, an insurance salesman, and a population of 150 (Maryland 1906: 667).

The Haneef Property contains a modern residence constructed in 1989 and a barn built in 1930. The barn is 2-stories tall with a side-gable roof and entrances on the gable end. Barn construction followed ethnic traditions. Dutch barns were nearly square and covered with a highly pitched roof. They employed a three-bay design with a large door at the center and smaller doors at the eaves which allowed access for the livestock. Hay was stored in a loft area above the animals. The English barn also contained three bays but with a long horizontal face and a low pitched gable roof. Where Dutch and English settlement coincided, a barn which combined construction styles developed (Arthur and Witney 1988, 36-83).

Foundation walls were frequently of fieldstone masonry construction which was also used most frequently for gable end walls before the mid nineteenth century, when increasing supplies and reduced cost of pre-cut lumber led to the adoption of wood. Vertical sheathing was often used for front and rear facades from an early date. Roofs were covered with shingle, slate, or metal. In late eighteenth and early nineteenth century barns, a series of tall vertical vents, or embrasures, punctuated the walls, providing ventilation and illumination of the barn's interior. The wood walls of later barns featured louvers and windows for the same purpose.

National Register Evaluation:

Constructed circa 1930, the barn on the Haneef Property is not eligible for the National Register of Historic Places. The property is not eligible under Criterion A, as research conducted indicates no association with any historic events or trends significant in the development of national, state or local history. The barn is no longer associated with its historic farmstead and, therefore does not represent a theme of agricultural production in Charles County. Historic research indicates that the property has no association with persons who have made specific contributions to history, and therefore, it does not meet Criterion B. It is not eligible under Criterion C, due to a lack of architectural distinction and loss of integrity. The barn is a common type found throughout the state and county. The structure is vacant and in poor condition. The roof is missing in several locations and vegetation has surrounded the barn. Finally, the structure has no known potential to yield important information, and therefore, is not eligible under Criterion D.
